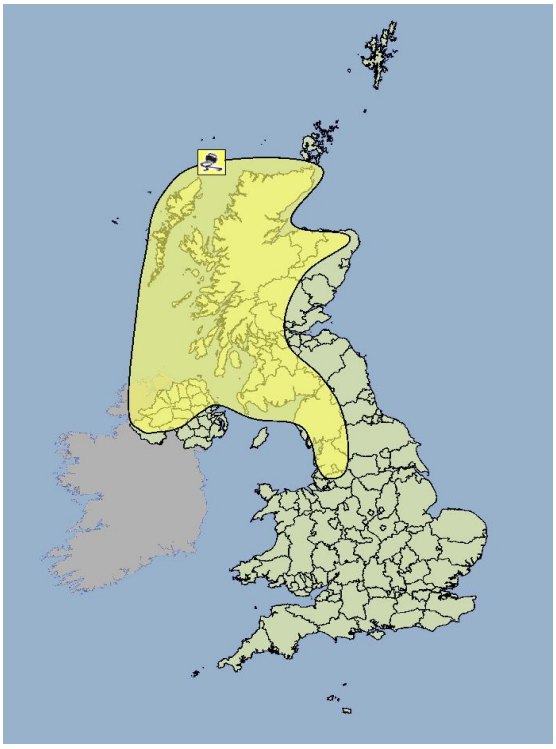
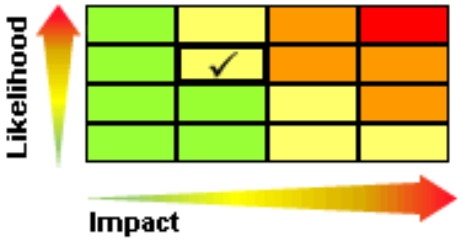
National Severe Weather Warning Service





Chief Forecasters Assessment
Showers across northern and western Scotland are expected to bring further snowfall with 1-2 cm possible to low levels, and 2-5 cm above around 200 m.

Across Northern Ireland and northern England, snow will be confined to higher routes, but icy patches are likely where showers leave surfaces wet.

The Met Office have issued a Yellow Warning of Ice

Valid from 18:00 on Thu, 23rd Nov 2017 until 10:00 on Fri, 24th Nov 2017

Expect some icy patches to form on untreated roads, pavements and cycle paths on Thursday evening and overnight into Friday. There is a risk of slippery surfaces and difficult driving conditions.

Snow showers are expected, mainly over higher ground in the north and west of Scotland, with longer journey times possible.
